

John Rateliffe

HOME

SPANISH

DOCUMENTATION

BIBLIOGRAPHY

CONTACTS

01 Introduction

A long time ago, Mr. Rateliffe decided to leave his homeland (probably in Lancashire, England) and headed to Tenerife (in the Canary Islands). He established himself and formed a family in the, by then known as Puerto de La Orotava (Tenerife), currently named Puerto de La Cruz.

The surname Rateliffe passed on to his descendants, and finally disappeared after Ms. María del Carmen Rateliffe, which was the last one to bear this surname in the Canary Islands.

- 00  Foreword
- 01  Introduction
- 011  Contents
- 012  Surces
- 013  Methodology

Ms. María del Carmen Hernández Rateliffe established herself with her husband in the island of La Palma, in Mazo, and had three children.

One of them, Mr. Juan Bautista Hernández y Hernández (Juan B.), finished his teacher training very young, just being 19 years old.

As his parents, he established himself also in Mazo and started as School Teacher (of Primary and Secondary) in the locality of Tiguerorte.

Mr. Juan B. was the only one among his siblings to marry and have descendants (three children).

CONTENTS.

Section 01 Introduction includes the subsection 011 Contents, which explains the focus of the information on this web page.

SOURCES.

LINKS

1.- Distribution of Rateliffe Families in England and Wales in 1891.

Section 012 Sources provides a documentary account of the references used for this web page.

METHODOLOGY.

Section 013 Methodology comments the research methodology here used, as well as the results obtained as a consequence.

© Edition and Content: tiguerorte@yahoo.es

Update 02/02/07